

facing the world

Right now, a child is waiting for help.

Born with a severe facial condition, they may struggle to breathe, eat, speak — or even be seen for who they truly are.

But this can change.

Facing the World's volunteer surgeons are transforming children's lives with urgent, life-changing surgery — giving them the chance to smile, to heal, and to live without pain or stigma. And by training local doctors, we ensure that this care continues long after each mission ends.

Today, more children are still waiting.

Waiting for surgery.

Waiting for hope.

Waiting for someone like you.

Please watch this powerful short film to see the difference your support can make.

You have the power to change a child's life — right now.

May we ask you to donate today. Don't let them wait any longer.
